300,000 a Minute—Slow
Mr. Mellon's Punch
Strangely, We Die
Fourth Day Anniversary
Current Events
By Arthur Brisbane

A MACHINE perfected in England takes 300,000 pictures in a minute. The camera, weighing two tons, is used to measure the power of shells hitting armor plate, speed of bullets, etc.

Marceline, but Old Nature smiles at our childish efforts. If we really could use the speed of light to the full extent we might take a photograph 186,000 miles long, running several a half times around the world, in one second.

WE HAVEN'T begun to use the resources of Nature. As Nikola Tesla said to this writer, thirty years ago, and as every student now knows, there is, bound up in the force that holds molecules, atoms and electrons together, enough power in an ordinary glass of water to run the machinery of the United States for a year.

MR. MELLON, mild in speech, appears, as modern slang has it, "to pack a punch." Senator Cossens, who got thirty odd millions in one jump from Henry Ford for his stock in the Ford Company, tells Mr. Mellon that he is all wrong about taxes, and high surtaxes don't make any difference.

Mr. Mellon replies in substance, "Your opinion would be more valuable if you hadn't invested your entire fortune in tax exempt securities, which pay no income tax."

STRANGELY we live; even more strangely we die. Carlyle Harris said, standing beside the electric chair and making a little bow, "I would like to say a few words; I suppose I may be permitted."

He then denied that he had committed the crime for which they killed him.

His denial was false.

YESTERDAY, Frank Rizzo was electrocuted in New Jersey for killing a policeman. He asked one favor, "To be allowed to show nerve and walk to the electric chair without guards." He walked to the chair unguarded, and sat in it, praying for forgiveness. First he kissed the three clergymen that accompanied him to the deathroom.

IN FRANCE, one murderer, marching to the guillotine, holding a heavy metal cross in his hands, suddenly turned and, with it, brained the priest who walked beside him, although his hands were tied together. Since that time the priest carries the cross as the murderer walks out of the prison of La Roquette.

THE FOURTH anniversary of the Eighteenth Amendment was celebrated in Washington yesterday. How do you think prohibition has worked thus far? Its enemies tell you, truly, that bootleg liquor, loss of prohibition, is the worst ever drunk; it blinds, poisons, and kills. Friends of prohibition tell you, also, truly, that fewer people go to jail, the poor house and the lunatic asylum, and many more millions are deposited in savings banks than in the old days.

IT IS for you to choose. Meanwhile, be sure of this. No body will know anything about prohibition for at least sixty years. It will take that long to prove whether alcohol is better or worse than Northern rascals—whether Orientals have amounted to little because they drink no alcohol, or in spite of the fact that they drink too alcohol.

Goodwin's Life Threatened

REFUSED LICENSE TO AUTOIST

North End Man Then Told the Registrar to Get Measured for a Coffin, He Says

In the last four or five years Salvatore Rizzo of the North End has been in court eighteen times on various charges from expectorating on sidewalks to assault.

He was in court the nineteenth time today, faced by State Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin, who charges that Rizzo had threatened him with death because he refused him a license to drive his automobile.

Despite the registrar's testimony on the witness stand that Rizzo had told him that if he did not give him back his license you might as well get measured for your coffin.

Chief Justice Bailey of Municipal Court let Rizzo go free on his own recognizance after paying him $50 and promising him ten days in the House of Correction, Rizzo entering an appeal.

Mr. Goodwin made no comment on the sentence.

On the witness stand he said: "This man in Lynn drove a truck with $5,000 worth of alcohol at 28 miles an hour. When I revoked his license he would drive a car without one."

The registrar said he got State Detective Edward O. O'Hara on Rizzo's trail. O'Hara testified to Rizzo having made the "cuff" remark to him.

Also to having exhibited him breaking speed laws in Lynn.

Rizzo denied everything. Rizzo was arrested in Boston two days ago for driving while in liquor. He denied he was operating the car he was in.

OF ONE AN TRAGEDY

Miami, Fla., Jan. 17 (A.P.).—The sea which battered down the tanker City of Everett and sent it to the bottom October 11, 1923, 150 miles east of Tortugas, with all on board, has tossed up a message from the tragedy.

It was found in a bottle at 231 feet, 20 miles from the beach of Miami, by Captain A. L. Baker of the launch Gladys.

The tightly-corked bottle contained a note scrawled with pencil on a piece of paper. It read:

"This is the last of me. Any findings, please send notice to Dr. J. B. Hall, 42, 505 N. Y. St., Philadelphia."

On the reverse side were the words: "To the dear friends who find this."

In his sprawling letters, apparently the last thing written with a pen, "Goodbye, goodbye, no more, and ever."

Today, the note bore no name, as the intervening tragedy had swept the details from the thoughts of the person who scribbled the message.

WIFE CHARGED WITH 1ST DEGREE MURDER

Matilda Khouri, formerly of No. 3 Norfolk street, Dorchester street, Dorchester, was arraigned in Dorchester Court today on a charge of murdering her husband last October.

She was held for the grand jury without bail on a charge of first degree murder.

Judge Joseph B. Churchill also held Matilda Khouri, alleged sister of Mrs. Khouri, in $500 bail as a material witness.

Kurker has confessed to the police at Mattapan station that he was a sweetheart of the accused woman and that she admitted to him she had killed her husband.

At the time Elias Khouri was found dead with a bullet hole in his head, Mrs. Khouri said he had killed himself because of financial worries. Police saw his fruit business in Dorchester was worth $10,000.

Today Mrs. Khouri faced her accuser for the first time. She flashed a glance at him and then looked down.

IN HANGAR AFTER LONG BATTLE IN STORM

Crew of Twenty-one Race
Death in Thrilling Dash
During Big Gale

Lakehurst, N. J., Jan. 17.—The navy dirigible Shendamoh, largest airship in the world, returned to her hangar at 4:24 this morning after having been torn from her mooring mast and driven in a 72-mile gale to New York city.

After a desperate struggle with the elements Captain Rizzo, who was in command, maneuvered the craft against the wind and brought her home.

Damage sustained by the giant dirigible was more extensive than first believed, according to a preliminary report made by the ship's commanding officer, Captain P. A. McMahon, after a careful examination of the craft this morning.

During the tempestuous voyage the ship suffered the following damage:

Two open ends, two forward bulkheads, several sections of outer cover on front starboard bow, many ribs in outer cover, upper stabilizing frame.

Captain Rizzo has received many messages congratulating the effort and men on the Shendamoh for their heroism in saving the ship.

The following came from Major William S. Hensley, Jr., commander of Mitchell Field:

"America's air cap in Captain Rizzo and Commander Pierce. To a long list of all officers they have added a brilliant achievement. To still that brought the Shendamoh home."

ACCUSES DAUGHTERY IN TRUST CASES

Washington, Jan. 17 (I.N.S.).—Attorney-General Daugherty was called upon in a resolution introduced in the Senate by Senator King, Democrat of Utah today, to report immediately upon his activities in proceeding anti-trust law violations. King charges that the Federal Trade Commission had reported 17 violations and that the Department of Justice had instituted action in only two of these cases. The resolution asked specifically why no indictments had been sought against violators of anti-trust laws.

CREW OF RUNAWAY AIRCRAFT FACE DEATH NINE HOURS

back to its hangar in safety shows what trained pilots and crews can do.

It was the most remarkable trip ever made by an aircraft of her type.

The huge ship had battled the wind and rain for more than nine hours. At first she was unable to cope with the furious storm, but after being driven to Staten Island her crew of twenty-one men was able, with difficulty, to head her into the wind and point her prow towards Lakehurst.

Slow progress was made on the homeward flight, the ship at times going as slow as four miles an hour. Long before she was in sight over the water the crew were in perfect condition, despite their harrowing experience.

As the searchlights played upon Captain Heine, a brave and grim face came from the control car to brother officers on the ground.

CHIDES GROUND MEN.

"You sons of guns, you were waiting for something to happen, weren't you?"

Captain Heine directed the work of the ground crew, and repeatedly warned the men to remain on the alert because of the treacherous, gusty ground breeze which began to pick up.

That the Shenandoah was nearly destroyed immediately after the 781 mile gale had torn her from her moorings was revealed after an examination today.

The Shenandoah suddenly jerked heavily and the officers in the control car, seeing that the ship was close to the ground where she was being hoisted with trees or buildings, replaced the water ballast. The tug on the emergency levers sent three 400-ton tanks of water tumbling to the ground and the ship began to rise at once.

The flight was a battle against the wind which blew at an average of nine miles an hour at times.

This gale tilted the giant craft from its towering moorings mast at 6:30 o'clock last night and sent her on a mad chase up the Atlantic coast to Staten Island, New York City, where Captain Arthur Heine turned her nose into the teeth of the storm and maneuvered her back to her home port.

BUT SLIGHTLY DAMAGED.

Not a man in her crew of twenty-one was injured, not a man was downed. Each of them declared it was the finest trip he ever had.

Two men in her crew of twenty-one were injured, but a man was downed. Each of them declared it was the finest trip he ever had.

Donovan, Boston letter merchant, and Charles E. Curtis, a wealthy resident of Maine.

DAY OF SUSPENSE

His plea followed a day of suspense and interruption. It has been expected since early Tuesday afternoon. It came as a shock to a disagreement with his counsel, both of whom formally withdrew their appearance for him in court.

While this development mystified spectators, the jurors remained in court of somewhat sudden change of front. The court and counsel were forced to sacrifice almost every case under the new, unusual circumstances. It took the fact from the jury until late in the afternoon.

CORCORAN'S PHONES.

Today's light lights were the following:

Judge Harry Trencher, No. 41 Dunbar place, Roxbury, called to Judge McLaughlin that he was suffering from indigestion and headed to be excused. He was refused and passed the day in the jury box.

Grand A. Stewart, commercial representative of the New England Telephone Company, testified that when William J. Corcoran occupied Suite 512 and 513 in Barclay Hall he was listed in the telephone directory as follows:

Corcoran, 513 Barclay Hall.

DORCHESTER MURDER CASE PRINCIPALS

KIDNAPED AT 16, CONFINED AT 17, KILLED AT 18, GIRL CAPTURED AT 19, PISTOL POINT

Bride Accuses Man of Taking Her to Philadelphia and Holding Her Captive

Kidnaped from her home, No. 16 Bidwell street, North End, and taken away to Philadelphia by a man who had been her lover for nearly a month until removed by her brother-in-law, and then threatened with death was her kidnaper again found her.

This was the story told to agents of the Department of Justice today by Mrs. Clementina Gregorio, bride of Vincent Gregorio, whom she appeared to press a white slave charge against George Carillo.

Carillo had just been sentenced to six months' imprisonment by Judge Sheehan in the Municipal Court for carrying a loaded revolver. When he served his sentence, for Carillo will prosecute him for violating the Mann act.

Mrs. Gregorio said that on November 23, while her husband was attending to his business at No. 12 Webster street, Carillo appeared at her house with a knife and a revolver.

With the loaded revolver in his coat pocket, motioning against her to look her to the Municipal Station and board a train for Philadelphia.

For some days she was locked in a room. Her food was taken to her. Carillo would stand at the door and watch where she was. She was unguarded long enough for Silvestro to whisk her into an automobile and drive her to the Broad street station where they caught a train for Boston.

Recently had she been visited by her husband, she said, before Carillo was arrested. The time the gun was pointed at the husband and his life was threatened.

Gregorio called Sergeant Sullivan of the Hanover street police station where Carillo was arrested.

Through the agency of Attorney William Sheehan the case was laid before the Federal officials.

RAID FROM RUNAWAY

The radio set on the Shenandoah has been out of working order during the day and no word came for the ship to do so.

Captain Heine said a great trip to Lakehurst. The ship was under way. The ship was under way. The ship was under way.

ALLOW the failure to keep accurate statistics twenty years ago, and the figures are still appalling.

And think of the loss in Ireland's population. It is due largely to the fact that Ireland has lost through emigration millions of young girls that should have been the mothers of Irish children born in Ireland.

THE HOUSE bill to prevent Orientals from taking up permanent residence in the United States ought to go through.

BRIDE'S INCOME CUT OFF, COUNT SALM TO RETURN TO MOVIES

NOBLEMAN AS ONLY JEWELS COUNT SALM AS MOVIE STAR YACHTSMAN

"Papa" Rogers Withholds All Funds; His Daughter Gets Only $10,000 a Year

New York, Jan. 17.—It begins to look as if Count Salm von Hoogstraten may have to seek another job in the movies as soon as the present funds of his countess bride, who was Millicent Rogers, are exhausted.

The family jewels of the Count and the Countess may keep the wolf away from the door for a little while, but when they are gone—hooray! for the movies.

Such was the prediction of persons intimately acquainted with the financial resources of Count Salm, when they learned from a source whom authority was indisputable, that Countess Millicent Rogers, the countess's father, executor and trustee and chief heir to the millions of his father, the late Henry Rogers of Standard Oil fame, has not his daughter a financial utter ruin.

DID CONTROLS CASE. "Count Salm," it read, was engaged to the disreputable Countess by the private secretary of Count Rogers Monday afternoon, "shall receive a penny of your grandfather's money now or as long as I live and control either estate."

Various local papers including a copy of the will of her grandfather, which Count Salm had in his complete control for his life of his daughter's interest in the Rogers' estate, were shown to and left with Countess Salm, who later went over from mourning to her count.

The secretary repeated the message from Count Rogers to Count Salm when the latter arrived at the Ritz later.

It was currently reported about the Ritz that since Miss Rogers became Countess Salm the entire account for the Salm apartments and the bill owed by the Count before the marriage had been charged to the Countess's personal account.

It was further stated that the Countess's income of about $10,000 a year from her grandfather's estate, but that is hardly sufficient for either a Rogers or a Salm, much less for both.

A visit by John Danvers, who writes accounts, and Anita Lenz, his wife, who plays on the screen, to the Count and Countess, lent weight to the report that Salm may soon be married on the silver sheet or trouper with Hollywood.

MRS. COFFIN SAILS. The Count left, it is known about the hotel that he would be embarking for Europe soon, probably next week and intended to visit his wife where his brother, Count Otto, who married Miss Cooper, has a castle at Belvedere.

Count Salm was supposed to be coming here soon, but the plans of Countess Salm would seem to indicate that he expects to try to see his brother alone and possibly talk over his family finances.

Mrs. Grace Montgomery Coffin, whom Count Salm was engaged to marry before he suddenly wed Miss Rogers, stated with her friend, Mrs. Vladimir Hunk, known on the films as Yvette Tilton, for France on the liner Paris. Her family saw her off and guarded her from reporters. Mrs. Hunk's husband recently committed suicide in Berlin and she is going here to end up his affairs.

Mrs. Coffin had been made ill by the notoriety which attached to her because of Count Salm's sudden marriage with Miss Rogers. When informed that Rudolph Valentino had fallen to Count Salm as a "fine fellow and a real Count," she agreed

Millicent Sees Count as Film Lover; "Great!" She Says

New York, Jan. 17 (Universal).—Anypose preparing a monograph on "how it feels to see your husband in another woman's arms," may apply to Millicent Rogers Salm von Hoogstraten for first-hand information. Though the countess is not putting out any data regarding her reactions to this unusual and vividizing event, eyewitnesses testified that she was properly impressed.

It all happened when Baroness Fern Andra's feature film, "The Red Rider," in which the count figures as a heavy lover, was projected at a local studio. The baroness wished to release the picture in America, but being a former friend of von Hoogstraten and a great admirer of Miss Rogers, she determined she wouldn't do so without their permission.

So the count and countess were invited to the film, and subjected, along with certain other important individuals.

Beginning from the time the silver sheet first began to give forth the black and white image of her husband, the countess was deeply absorbed. From time to time little ecstatic murmurs would come from Millicent.

The Baroness Fern Andra, of course, was playing opposite the count. It more seems that she has shared the baroness to the knightly woman and his lips could be seen to move in words—which, though in

LABORERS ASKS "NO CONFIDENCE" VOTE; HE IS BACKED BY AQUITH

London, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—Former Premier Aquith, leader of the reformed Liberal party, announced in the House of Commons today that he would vote in favor of the Labor amendment expressing "no confidence" in the Baldwin government, and would advise all his friends to do the same.

Following a tumultuous scene in Commons this afternoon, precipitated by the Laborites, John Robert Clynes, a Laborite, moved an amendment to King (George's) recent speech expressing a lack of confidence in Premier Baldwin's Tory government.

This motion was Labor's opening gun in the campaign to overthrow the Baldwin government.

Clynes declares that Great Britain's foreign policy had reached "a stage of weakness and inaction."

"We can no longer merely watch and wait for the situation to develop," he said, "we must take active part in international settlements. We must not only welcome such aid, it is essential that we should be able to do so."

The Prince of Wales and his younger brother, the Duke of York, attended the session.

Laborsites precipitated the first order of the session. Upward of 100 members of the House of Commons, including Mr. Shaw, the Secretary of the House of Commons, were taken to the House of Commons by the police.

When the speaker threatened to open Kirkwood, Mrs. Thomas Winstanley, one of the eight women members, grabbed him by the coat-tail and tried to drag him back into his seat. The Laborite angry shook her off.

There was a tense situation when Commons convened, for careful plans had been made for a combined Labor-Liberal mass attack upon the Cabinet.

VOTE ON MONDAY. Clynes had served notice that he would move a motion of no confidence in the Tory government. He had prepared a speech bitterly attacking the Cabinet for its failure to deal with unemployment and its inability to settle foreign problems.

Former Premier H. H. Asquith had given notice that he would support Clynes, explaining why the Laborites were supporting the motion of no confidence in the Tory government.

Not all the Liberal members, however, were in favor of supporting the Laborites and their determination to this extent for about three weeks to enable Ramsay MacDonald, leader of the Labor party, to form a Cabinet.

"The situation that confronts us is the situation of three independent and organized parties, none insignificant in numbers and none commanding a majority of votes—a unique situation," Asquith said. "But under these conditions, unexampled as they are, the Labor party has the absolute and undoubted right and claim to assume office."

INNER BATTLES WAY TO HUB, 4 DAYS LATE

Winifred of Leyland Line
Hammered by Hurricane in the Mid-Atlantic

Another storm-battered passenger ship, the Leyland liner Winifred, steamed this port today four days overdue from Liverpool, after a passage in which one gale followed on the heels of another for two weeks. The liner came through without damage, though battered incessantly by monster seas.

The Winifred left Liverpool January 1 and ran into heavy weather as soon as she reached the Irish Channel. Heavy gales continued and, on the 10th, the liner encountered a full hurricane in which she wallowed helplessly for several hours and made but slight miles during the twenty-four hours from midnight to midnight. Several days during the voyage she lay held back by head gales in which she could make but five or six knots an hour.

Among the passengers was the wife of Woodville Hulse of the Jersey Placers. Mrs. Hulse, whose stage name is Madeline Hulse, will seek an engagement in this country. Other passengers were Mrs. E. B. Green of Framingham, Mrs. Mary Mull of Lawrence and Arthur Pemberton of London. The ship also brought 1,400 bags of wool and about 1,600 tons of general cargo.

The ship was under control, and the ship was being steamed to the north.

Smart Set to Sell Groceries to Aid Infants' Hospital, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN

"A. L. the world loves a baby.

But not everyone can give a great deal to help the thousands of sick and helpless tots born into this world.

Therefore, Mrs. Theodore Frothingham, Jr., and her band of co-workers aren't asking you to contribute even a single penny.

But they do ask you, please, to buy all your groceries on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week at John Gilbert, Jr., Company's store, Boylston and Berkeley streets.

For the concern has promised that the Infants' Hospital is to receive 50 per cent. of all the gross sales made on these three days.

What an easy way to save a tiny life—walk into a shop and buy your groceries!

All the money which the hospital obtains by this sale will be devoted to a special object which will save the lives of many babies.

Mrs. HORACE GRAY of The Fenway is on the committee. Mrs. Frothingham's very smart committee, which includes Mesdames Channing Cox, Alan T. Fuller, Oliver Ames, Jr., E. Scholer Welch and George Warren.

Mrs. Dudley H. Howe will be among the prominent group who are to act as salesladies at Gilbert's during the three days. A few of the others being Mesdames Allan Forbes, Arthur Beale, Samuel Eliot, Frederick Eaton and Homer B. Richardson.

Miss Polly Webster is preparing a group of beds to be made on cash or check basis.

Another busy evening is promised for those who enjoy their treacherous exercise, for besides the dance which Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Winthrop are giving for their daughter, Miss Dorothy Winthrop, there's the second supper dance at the Copeland.

But going on from one affair to another means to give more to, rather than just spend, an evening, so that "double bills" are really quite popular.

SPRIGTHLY Mrs. Charlie Blanchard (Theresa S. Wild), has gone about twenty laurels on the subject of the Infants' Hospital.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Winsor Weld of Chestnut Hill has once more been selected for the American Olympic team. She sailed from New York on board the Paris.

On the same boat, later, by the way, were Mr. and Mrs. George Sullivan Amory (Marion Amory), whose wedding on Saturday night took a large host to the Continental Hotel.

The bride for her sister made her home with her brother, Arthur, who is now in New York and Tuxedo Park, who a few years ago married Laurence Bliss of Boston. Amory formerly made his home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Whitman (Florence Hood) cruised from the North Shore to Palm Beach on board their craft, the "Albatross." The Whitmans are prominent among the Myopia Hunt Club coterie down Hamilton way.

Instead of being held at the Pine Arts Theatre, as was first planned, the Junior League will present its musical show, "Milk and Honey," at the Copley Theatre. The dates are February 4 and 5.

SHOWER OF ORANGES FOLLOWS R. R. MISHAL

An orange shower of the New Haven train, which left the New Haven station, was scattered over the passengers. Youngsters with watermelon and other fruit were seen on the train. Some had even sold at the station, hoping that the men might get an orange or two to leave an orange or two at home. But no such luck. Two freight cars loaded with oranges collided, causing the orange shower.

24 WAIFS TAKEN FROM WOMAN FOR ABUSE

Homeless Youngsters, Underfed and Turned Out in Rain, Are Rescued by Police

Philadelphia, Jan. 15.—Police here took twenty-four homeless boys, ranging in age from five to twelve years, from the house of Mrs. Catherine Ballantine, after complaints by six of the little waifs that they had been abused, underfed and turned out of doors in a driving rain storm.

Mrs. Ballantine was paid to a week each by five or six relatives to look after the children.

On orders to remove the boys the police reported that they were forced to batter down doors to find signs of them.

In one room, they declared, they found seven small boys in one bed, while in a locked closet with no ventilation, four more were sleeping.

Twelve-year-old Fred Lynch told the authorities that he and the other boys had been given nothing to eat for a day except raisins and rice.

Rebel blockade of Tampico Proves Fizzle

Tampico, Mexico, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—Observers of the De la Huerta rebellion are inclined to ridicule the insurgent leader's recent proclamation of the blockade of this port, for yesterday, the day the blockade was to have been made effective, there was no sign of a rebel ship off the port and shipping was in no way disturbed.

Trains are running on normal schedules, leaving the port with great quantities of freight brought there by sea. Meanwhile federal reinforcements are arriving in Tampico in considerable strength, for the Mexican government is anxious to rid the entire oil region of rebels so as to make good its promise of guarantee for property and life.

Eighty Mexican Rebels Are Killed in Battle

Mexico City, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—The War Department will neither confirm nor deny reports that the De la Huerta revolutionaries have obtained control of the oil wells and pipe lines in the rich Cerro Azul district in Vera Cruz and nearby producing centers.

The department announced, however, that the commanders of the federal forces operating south from Tampico in the oil field districts have lost slightly killed in an attack upon Cerro Azul, including General Felipe Reyes.

SEATS ON EXCHANGE BRING $85,000 EACH

New York, Jan. 17.—Contrasting with the ruling price of $500 a seat in 1885, two seats on the New York Stock Exchange were sold today each for $85,000, an advance of $2,000 over the last sale.

According to information from rebel prisoners, the revolutionists lost slightly killed in an attack upon Cerro Azul, including General Felipe Reyes.

WOMAN SWEARS LIKE A PIRATE; ESCAPES JURY

Society Leader Grows Profane When the Men Jurors Smoke and Spit

Portland, Ore., Jan. 17.—Mrs. Louise Palmer Weber, prominent society and showman of Portland, was excused from the January jury panel "because she swore profusely in the circuit court room" according to attaches of the court and Mrs. Weber's own admission. Mrs. Weber was excused at her own request.

"I make no doubt that I swore," Mrs. Weber said after a conference with Judge Tawell and the other jurors.

Janitor Mows Town Hall Lawn in Berkshires

Great Barrington, Jan. 17.—A Winter record for this town, if not for New England, was established today when Michael Casey, janitor of the town hall and custodian of its grounds, got out his lawnmower and mowed the lawn around the building. The trimming was limited to the south or sunny side of the building, but the oldest inhabitants recall nothing of the kind in any January.

Jurors. "I swore like a pirate and there was justification for it. If the men of the jury are permitted to smoke the cheapest cigars they can buy until the air is thick and sweat all over the place, I think there was nothing very wrong in my swearing. I don't know any law against it. I asked the judge if he did and he said he didn't."

DETECTIVES IN HUNT FOR WIFE AND CHILD

Lucianni, the Husband, Says They Disappeared When He Started His Divorce Suit

Private detectives, employed by Alfred Lucianni, of No. 21 Middle street, South End, are searching Boston and suburbs in search of his wife, Victoria Lucianni, and her eight-year-old daughter, Lolo, who disappeared together eight days ago.

The husband has brought suit for divorce, charging his wife with misconduct.

Immediately following the filing of the suit Mrs. Lucianni disappeared, taking with her their eight-year-old daughter, Lolo, whom she spirited away from the Legion hotel on Portland street, Back Bay.

The husband, who is an ex-convict, became suspicious of his vivacious young wife several months ago, and she, increased at his suspicions, moved back and baggage to her mother's home at No. 234 Tremont street.

MRS. VICTORIA LUCIANNI AND LOLO

Her husband declares that as soon as he filed suit for divorce, she disappeared with her eight-year-old daughter. He has private detectives searching for her so that he can serve papers and receive his child.

street. She is twenty-four and her husband twenty-eight. They have been married nine years and Lolo is their only child.

Two weeks ago the husband's attorney, Charles E. Nordstrom, accompanied by a private detective, raided the flat of a girl friend of Mrs. Lucianni on St. Botolph street, Back Bay, and are alleged to have found Mrs. Lucianni there with a man. Three days after the raid the husband filed his suit for divorce.

His love for her has died, Lucianni says. All he wants is a divorce and the custody of his child. The detectives are looking for her, he says, so that divorce papers can be served on her and the child recovered.

Two weeks standing by, it was said, and hopes were entertained that the craft could be drawn into deep waters as soon as the heavy was subdued. No fear was felt for the safety of the officers and men aboard.

Dispatches outlining the situation led some high officers of the navy to believe she might have to be abandoned. If she is on rocky bottom in twelve feet of water, and was driven there by the force of a northerly, it was declared that the cost of getting her off may not be justified. Presumably a large part of the ship's bottom in the forward and middle section has been ruptured.

The cruiser Richmond probably will be stationed at Vera Cruz to take the place of the Tacoma, which had been ordered to that port to act as an emergency communications station to the United States due to the interruption of cable facilities incident to the De La Huerta insurrection.

BOSTON FIVE DEATHS IN JOIN CLEANUP CAMPAIGN

Asked to Follow Philadelphia, New York and Other Drives to Enforce the Dry Law

Resolved meeting for action in the matter of law enforcement were passed by the New England Citizenship Conference, demanding that Boston follow the lead of Philadelphia, Chicago, New York and other large cities in staging a general cleanup.

Prominent residents have combined forces to organize a citizen's conference on law enforcement, beginning Sunday and continuing Monday and Tuesday, with a mass meeting in Symphony Hall Monday night.

"Disrupting forces obtained from the Boston City Hospital and other hospitals caring for inmates and from Federal government officers swamped with a multitude of liquor cases," are given as reasons for the adoption of the resolution.

MENACE TO CITIZENS.

Recognizing the menace to citizens from lawless drinking and lawless traffic, and also in view of the fact that Boston officers on the part of law enforcement officials in Philadelphia and New York city are met with signal success, the resolution demands "a thorough cleanup of Greater Boston as a preliminary to similar campaigns in all New England cities."

"We insist," continues the resolution, "that illegal distillation, the saloon, drug stores, the hidden fruit, stand bars, the backstreet bootleg business, and the 'speakeasy' restaurants be hunted out and suppressed and the officers brought to justice." Copies of the resolutions have been sent to the various executives of the enforcement departments and to numerous other cities.

SIGNERS OF RESOLUTION.

Included in the list of the signers of the resolutions are the following prominent Bay State:

Dr. Richard C. Cabot, Rev. Ernest M. Cox, Helen G. Hatch, Dr. W. E. Glynn, Edward W. Hoar, Dennis McCarthy, C. H. J. Kimball, Lyman W. Bates, Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, Mrs. Charles Wolfe, Mrs. John I. Grandin, Robert W. Kelso, J. C. Parley, Dr. Lorin Briggs, Rev. George Lyman Palmer, T. C. Paine, Florence B. Radcliffe, Martha Helen Elliott, Annie M. Bennett, Stanley H. Devereaux, King and Malcolm Davis.

The list of those who will address the conference includes former Attorney-General J. Weston Allen, Dr. Richard C. Cabot, Governor Cox, Professor Albert Bushnell Hart, Bishop William Lawrence, Dr. Payson Smith, Commissioner of Education Governor Charles H. Templeton of Connecticut and Ralph Harry Lewis.

Simon Borden Dead

Paul Borden, Jan. 17.—Simon Borden, chief of courts of Bristol County since 1884, died at his home here today aged sixty-three years.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—One of the most severe January storms that has struck New York City and vicinity in many years had subsided today after evening, indirectly, five deaths and considerable property loss and damage to small shipping in the harbor and along the New Jersey coast.

Nothing was known today as to the fate of two vessels reported in distress, one off Ashbury Park, N. J., and the other near Bayview, N. J. Four of the deaths attributed to the storm occurred in New York City. Three of them due to traffic accidents resulting from a driving rain that, combined with a blizzard, almost halted traffic during the height of the blow. The fourth resulted from a traffic accident in Jersey City.

Twenty-two persons in the Metropolitan district were reported suffering slight injuries as the result of minor accidents caused by the storm.

Damage estimated at thousands of dollars was caused by the smashing of plate glass windows and other accidents resulting from a driving rain that, combined with a blizzard, almost halted traffic during the height of the blow. The fifth resulted from a traffic accident in Jersey City.

Checker Test Co. today absorbed the Tax Service Company, which operated Black & White Cabs.

By this move the Checker Tax Company becomes the third largest taxi company in the world. It will operate more than 300 cabs, including the newly acquired equipment. New York and Philadelphia are the only cities having large companies.

Ten years ago Frank Sawyer, president of the Checker Tax Company drove a taxi of the concern that passed into his control today. The growth of the Checker Company has been unusual. It began business about two years ago with 25 cabs.

Jane Cowl and her players are coming to the Selwyn Theatre next week, when they will appear in "Tommy and Juliet" and "Antony and Cleopatra."

With the capacity growing "Jane Cowl Legend" comes the definite announcement of what might be termed the Jane Cowl Permanent Theatre. This was not only to be a series of plays or merely a repertory company, but a permanent theatre.

"Tommy and Juliet," which ran 141 consecutive performances in New York last season, and almost all summer on tour, laid the corner stone for the Cowl Permanent Theatre.

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

We certainly live in a country of extraordinary business vitality. Although most European countries are exhibiting under depression, and although various important countries in other parts of the world are badly off industrially and commercially, the United States was able to do a foreign trade last year of $3,000,000,000—eight times that of the United Kingdom. And we finished the year with a balance of sales over purchases of more than $1,000,000,000.

For good measure, we also received on January 1, 1924, a balance of $1,000,000,000. Every business day last year we exported merchandise and commodities to the value of $1,000,000,000. Every business day last year we purchased from foreign countries $1,000,000,000.

Our export of goods exceeded our import of goods every day of the year. Our export of goods exceeded our import of goods every day of the year. Our export of goods exceeded our import of goods every day of the year.

Toward the end of the year we heard a rumor that business was falling off. Well, during December our exports averaged more than $1,000,000,000. Our imports averaged less than $1,000,000,000. Our exports exceeded our imports every day of the year.
